HOW THE HITECH ACT OF 2009 AFFECTS RECORDS

The American Recovery and Reinvestment Act (ARRA) of 2009 aka “the Stimulus Bill,” was signed into law by the federal government on February 17, 2009. Money set aside from this law is intended to be used to increase the use of Electronic Health Records (EHR's) by physicians and hospitals; this portion of the bill is called, the Health Information Technology for Economic and Clinical Health Act, or HITECH Act.

The Centers for Medicare and Medicaid Services (CMS) are to provide reimbursement incentives for eligible professionals and hospitals who are successful in becoming “meaningful users” of certified electronic health record (EHR) technology. These incentives payments begin in 2011 and gradually decrease. Starting in 2015, providers are expected to have adopted and be actively utilizing a certified EHR in compliance with the “meaningful use” definition or they will be subject to financial penalties under Medicare.

The HITECH Act will impact practitioners, physician practices, health care providers, community clinics, hospitals, business associates, health care system vendors, and insurance companies. Whether you business will be implementing a certified EHR system to take advantage of the maximum available incentives or waiting for more industry choices, you need to have the most current information available to make either of these decisions.
